❖ Rodents:

Mr Harrison (Flat 52) noted that he had recently seen five or six rat-holes near block A. He asked if regular inspections were carried out. Bob Haswell confirmed that we have put a scheme in place for regular checks and baiting of drains and the estate in general.

Miss Beasley (Flat 87) suggested that we need a system to flag-up where rat holes are. Bob Haswell suggested that if lessees spot a rat hole, they should report it to Nigel Jones, our gardener, who can then fill it in.

❖ Gardens/cleaning:

Mr Harrison (Flat 52) said that he felt that Nigel had possibly taken on too much work. He understood that Nigel had sacked two staff and was looking after an estate next door to Queenswood Gardens. Bob Haswell, who has overall responsibility for the gardens, replied that Nigel had only laid off one person, and that had been someone who worked on another estate for which Nigel had had a contract. Bob Haswell further said that there had been no complaints to him about Nigel's work or productivity, and that he had full confidence in him.

Mr Penny (Flat 59) said that he understood that vacuuming of the hallways used to be done once a week, with each of the lobby areas receiving a second vacuuming on Friday mornings. He felt that this was no longer happening. Bob Haswell advised that he would take this up with Nigel the following day.

❖ Fences:

Mr Penny (Flat 59) thanked the board for arranging for new fencing to be installed at the end of block A, between the end wall and the boundary. This seems to be deterring local youths from using Queenswood Gardens as a short cut on their way to school.

❖ Anti-social Behaviour:

Mr Penny (Flat 59) said that in his opinion, the situation regarding anti-social behaviour was currently "blissful". Members felt that there was still a need to remain vigilant. Mr Harrison (Flat 52) offered his assistance in drawing up a code of conduct for landlords, should the board feel that such a code is necessary in the future.

❖ “Queenswood Life” website:

There was general approval of the new website. Particular mention was made of the timely reference to the “garage defender” locking system and links to retailers when there was spate of garage burglaries.

❖ Main Doors:

It was recognised that there are still ongoing problems with the main doors supplied by Crystal Windows. Mr Penny (Flat 59) reported that there was fault on the main door to block A; the board undertook to have it looked at either by Crystal Windows themselves, or by Dave Burt, a handyman often used by Queenswood Management Association Ltd.

❖ Rubbish:

Bob Haswell noted after locks had been fitted to the door on the block D bin shed, a bag of rubbish had been left outside bin-shed; it had been returned to the flat whose occupant left it outside the doors, as they had been traced through an envelope left in the bag. Whenever possible, residents who leave rubbish outside the bin-sheds, or who dump large items in the bin-sheds are traced, and rubbish is either returned to them, or they are required to pay for the cost of proper disposal.

❖ Apple Tree:

Miss Beasley noted that there is an apple tree outside block C and suggested that residents should be allowed to pick the apples for their own consumption. The meeting felt this was a good idea.

There being no other business, the meeting closed at 9.05 pm
